A GARDEN FOR ALL

Gardens by the Bay is a unique, enchanting space unlike any other park or attraction in Singapore. It is a national garden and has remained steadfast in fulfilling its mission of being a People's Garden, for all of us to own, enjoy and cherish. As Patron of the Gift of Gardens programme, I have witnessed how the Gardens has enabled Singaporeans from all walks of life – children, youths, persons with disabilities, seniors and under-privileged families – to enjoy the Gardens through guided tours, community events and educational programmes, as well as to connect and benefit from the therapeutic effects of nature.

Despite the challenges posed by the pandemic over the past two years, the Gardens has pressed on with its public programmes, such as Children's Festival, Christmas Wonderland, and Mid-Autumn Festival. I am heartened to see families and friends enjoying their time in the Gardens' attractions and floral displays, which bring cheer to Singaporeans in these difficult times.

The Gardens is also continuing its efforts in developing new attractions. Having launched the Bayfront Plaza in 2019 and the Active Garden earlier this year, I have witnessed the perseverance and hard work of the team at the Gardens in creating new spaces and programmes to enhance social and community bonds. During my visits, I was happy to see many families and friends spending quality time together, pet owners taking a stroll with their fur kids, and fitness enthusiasts pursuing their fitness goals in this verdant landscape set in the heart of Marina Bay. I am confident that Gardens by the Bay, with its tenacious spirit to innovate and create new experiences, will continue to be an attractive horticultural and leisure attraction for Singaporeans for many years to come.

WHERE WE BEGIN

Garden by the bay in 2010. Today, it has been transformed into a vibrant, futuristic park in Singapore. The famous Supertree structures are among the most notable features. These feature an impressive skywalk above the gardens, as well as oversized seashell-shaped greenhouses that simulate chilly mountain climates.

As a community leader, it is certainly heartening to see the Gardens be a source of social cohesion.

With the creation of the Gardens comes the creation of opportunities for people of all backgrounds to intermingle and interact. This is evident as within the Gardens, there is something for everyone to participate in and enjoy. With increased interactions, communities began to bloom, and thus social cohesion begins to emerge, and society benefits. Not satisfied with this passive progress, Gardens by the Bay actively creates opportunities such as the Gift of Gardens program, which allows underprivileged members of society to enjoy the Gardens in its entirety. As a community leader, it is certainly heartening to see the Gardens be a source of social cohesion.

I human enjoyment and learning within a spatially and ecologically diverse landscape

Bay South has featured in many movies and TV programmes, not least in BBC's Planet Earth 2 series when Sir David Attenborough described it as "perhaps the most spectacular example of city greening".

It successfully merges human enjoyment and learning within a spatially and ecologically diverse landscape punctuated with unique heroic, futuristic structures and experiences.

Creative in continuous ways to do their best in the landscape

It is always challenging to bring interesting plants to display and the staff have been creative in continuous ways to do their best in the landscape. In the horticulture world one always must be one step ahead and I hope Gardens by the Bay staff will continue this good but difficult practice so that we can be always one of the best horticultural displays in this region.

Flower Dome's fresh produce Gardens by the Bay Flower Dome has been one of my favourite destinations to see flowers and plants. I really enjoyed taking many pictures there and I love that there is a new theme every few months. Submitting 2 of the more unique shots I took there. :)

I love visiting Gardens By the Bay. My favourite spot is the Flower Dome. I love admiring the flowers in the comfort of air conditioning as well as the different themes during different periods of the year. As I am practising on macro shots for flowers, thus the Flower Dome provide a good learning ground for macrophotography for flowers. Happy 10th anniversary, Gardens by the Bay!

Gardens by the Bay has been one of lighthouses of this island during the dark times of the pandemic; the kindness of its staff and the splendor of its trees and flowers have exerted a healing effect on all of us.

Gardens by the Bay is that amazing place where plants from the whole world are not only gathered and taken care of; they are also understood.

WHERE MAGIC HAPPENS

River Hongbao, one of Singapore's largest Chinese New Year Festival, is a yearly event that I attend with my family. With the shift from the Marina Bay floating platform to Gardens by the Bay, I can enjoy a leisure stroll in Flower Dome before visiting the fairground.

There is no place on earth quite like the unique and stunning Gardens by the Bay!

Living in a busy city like Singapore, Gardens By the Bay symbolizes a relaxation sanctuary to me, the culmination of creative exuberance and a creator of unforgettable experiences. As I have expressed before, the Gardens is truly a delightful mix of serenity imbued with pleasant fragrances and mesmerizing colours.

Absolutely confident that Gardens by the Bay would still be an iconic park for many years to come

I had a great pleasure, not only being a guest at a numerous wonderful flower displays, such as Cherry Blossom Sakura and festive events like Christmas Wonderland, but also work closely with Gardens by the Bay Team and you, personally, as a co-organiser of Tulipmania 2021 Display.

I am absolutely confident that Gardens by the Bay would still be an iconic park for many years to come and the fact that we had an opportunity to held Tulipmania display together, I view as one of the highlights of Embassy activities.

It has become a true landmark in Singapore

Gardens by the Bay is a magical place. It has become a true landmark in Singapore and a major attraction. When I visited Singapore with my family for the first time as a tourist in 2015, the garden was on the top of our list of places to visit. I remember being mesmerized by the super trees and the domes, and Children's Garden has always since been known as "one of the best playgrounds ever" in my children's memories. Now living here, I enjoy visiting regularly to experience the changing exhibitions and events.

A memorable moment

We have built a good relationship through the years. With my extensive network in the European horticulture industry, we were able to present a wide range of plants to Singapore.

These ten years of working with Gardens by the Bay to create countless beautiful displays gave me a lot of pleasure, and I have made several special friends. Gardens by the Bay is one of the world's leading gardens and its continuous quest for knowledge and ideas is an inspiration for gardens of the future. I wish all at Gardens by the Bay another 10 successful years with many nice plant shows and many more visitors from all over the world to come!

A picture is worth a thousand words. Standing in front of the Torii, it was a silent moment, I felt the calmness and serenity of the place. A sacred moment and I felt the joy of being alone. Look at the blue sky, through the Dome's glass panel, a beauty that words could not describe. An amazing ten years

The original vision has, in my opinion, been exceeded and today the garden is the centerpiece of Singapore's skyline and a visible symbol of our ability to build icons of global importance. Today we still operate the two restaurants in the park, with Pollen now called Marguerite, and we are very proud to do so. It's been an amazing ten years and I feel massively privileged to have played this small part in the park's journey of success. Long may it continue.

The bay is filled with numerous ships, and the city skyline is visible in the distance.
