PRECIOUS PEONY

Precious Peony pays tribute to the journey of this revered flower of the Chinese as it made its way from China to Nanyang in the hearts and minds of immigrants in search of a new home, and how its portrayal evolved as Chinese culture itself evolved. The recreation of a Chinese garden is a nod to the roots of the peony in Chinese history, while the facade of a Peranakan shophouse represents the evolution of the flower to become a well-loved motif of the Chinese Peranakan community in Singapore. Amidst this landscape are more than 70 artefacts of Chinese and Peranakan culture on loan from local museums - a first in Gardens by the Bay's 10-year history of floral displays. Highlights include an antique Peranakan blackwood bench inlaid with mother-of-pearl on loan from the Peranakan Museum (a division of Asian Civilisations Museum), a rare iron-splash glazed blackware vase contributed by The Society for Chinese Ceramics Studies, and intricate Peranakan hand-beaded slippers from The Intan.
